WHO OWNS THIS COUNTRY.

The business of suppressing news not favorable to the administration and to the schemes of the moneyed interests which are so largely responsible for the turn taken by the present war, is receiving new and surprising illustration. The Boston Herald, an independent and conservative paper, mentions a meeting that was held in Cincinnati a short time ago, called by very respectable and influential gentlemen, to protest against the administration's course in the Philippines. Curiously, the great press organization of the country never let it be known that there was to be, or that there had been, such a meeting.

According to the Herald, which gained its information by private enterprise, it was not an unimportant meeting, either in the quality of its callers, the number in attendance or the character of the addresses made. These latter did not appear to have transgressed in any way the proper privilege of sober and respectable citizens discussing public affairs of great importance. "Certainly," says the Herald, "the meeting deserved more notice by news-gatherers than hundreds of meetings which receive such attention ad nauseam."

These things prompt the natural inquiry, Who owns the country, anyway? Does the President own it? Do the trusts own it? Do the party bosses own it? Whenever that question becomes a vital issue, as it soon will be, it will be settled with a suddenness which will surprise, and may do mischief to the concientious fools who think they can manage the American people just as they have a mind to do for the furtherance of their selfish and unrighteous ends.

But, how silly the suppression of legitimate news is! Once let the people get the idea that they are not fit to know what is going on, except as it is dribbled out by persons who imagine that they have a proprietary interest in public affairs, and they will find a way to teach these arrogant leaders the usefulness of common sense.

Ex-Senator DUBOIS of Idaho voices the sentiments of the people generally, who are not administration hangers-on, when he says:

"The masses will be greatly pleased if the administration will only announce a direct and distinct policy as to how it proposes to govern these new possessions. It has no policy yet, but it must announce one at once if it wants to hold its prestige until the next campaign. If war was terminated at once and the loss of life and expenditure of money stopped, the administration could put up most any form of government it chose for the islands, and be sustained by the people. But as things now stand, with chances for complications with other countries, and for numerous other reasons, I do not think there is any appreciable percentage of our people who would submit to absolute sovereignty by the United States over those islands."

Out of a total of 250,000 Indians in the United States only fifty-eight are reported by the government agent as insane—a percentage of insanity astonishingly small in comparison with other races. Poor Lo's mind has not yet been racked and strained by all the wearin, tearin things that come with the daily grind of business life and the taking up of "the white man's burden."

The farcical so-called Peace Convention in The Hague is about to adjourn sine die. It has accomplished nothing in the matter of arbitration as a substitute for war. On the contrary it has virtually approved the introduction of the deadly and inhuman method of killing men with the explosive-dum-dum bullet, and the piratical system of confiscation of private property on the high seas.

NEVADA does not abound in multimillionaires. The reason is, before they become multi they shoot out for some other State or country. Nevada, just the same, has made more multimillionaires than any other State in the Union of twenty-times its population. She can make them fast enough but it seems that she can't keep them. Wonder the reason why?

It is to be hoped that the Root who has been appointed Secretary of War, will not, like his predecessor, prove a dead beat.

We heard one of our business men say yesterday that nearly every dollar shipped into Elko soon floated to San Francisco into the coffers of the railroad company. If fares and freights were reduced to the level they are in California, more money would be kept at home and the people could enjoy more of the comforts of life.—Elko Independent.

Wonder if "one of our business men" voted the Stewart legislative ticket last fall. If he did he should be the last to complain of the extortion of the railroad corporation of which the "grand old man" is the Congressional attorney, and who is head devil of the works which float "nearly every dollar shipped into Elko into the coffers of the railroad company in San Francisco."

Combative Equines.

Yesterday morning team belonging to Wm Thompson, which was hitched in front of Novacovich's store took offense at the docile animal belonging to Mrs. Barney Clow, for whom Mrs. Clow drove up to hitch her horse in front of Harry Davis' store the first team began kicking furiously, damaging Mrs. Clow's buggy and wounding her horse.

Not being satisfied with this they landed a few side shots among a pile of watermelons in front of the store, smattering them about quite liberally. They then ate up a section of the side walls and were about to go through a show window and visit Harry Davis when spectators interfered.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in the most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement, I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim."

No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cts per bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

D. J. Greger of the San Francisco Red M. Soap and Polish Company has been in Nevada for some days looking about for a deposit of fine granular silica suitable for commercial purposes.

He found the substance for which he was searching a few miles from Verdi, and yesterday completed a purchase from Fredrick Walkie, the former owner. Mr. Greger will develop the mine and ship the silica taken out to his works in San Francisco.

Fish.

The beautiful girl had parted forever from the only man she ever really loved, and she was even sadder than was usual with her upon such occasions.

They tried to coax her.

"There are always good fish left in the sea," they urged.

"Yes, but when you catch them they turn out to be lobsters!" she exclaimed bitterly, thereby showing that after all a person's hair may curl naturally without rendering a person entirely devoid of sense.—Detroit Journal.

The Burlington is preparing to extend its road to Ogden. If it would build across Nevada and give the people a competing line, how the State would boom. Competition in freights and fares would put new life into the people.—Elko Independent.

"Oh Lord, bless and prosper the people of Nevada," prayed a pious old Elko county man at a religious gathering recently, and the next day he sent a big order, accompanied by a check, to a California grocery house for his summer supplies. "God helps them who help themselves;" therefore Nevada will prosper when Nevadans patronize home industry.—Herald.

Labor has not been in such demand in Nevada for a long time as it is at present. Complaints of a shortage of hay hands come from all parts of the State, first class employees commanding $2 a day and board. A few good miners also can probably find employment in the camps of this country in the near future. This is not meant as an invitation for the hobo or the tin horn.—White Pine News.

The barge teams arrived yesterday afternoon from Rose Valley, Oregon, having on board 45,000 pounds of flux which will be shipped to the Electric Smelting Company at Reno. The teams started on their return trip this afternoon and were well loaded with merchandise, hardware, grain and lumber that will be distributed at the several stations that border on their route of travel.—Silver State.

A VERY QUEER DEAL.

IN A FAMOUS GAME OF DRAW POKER IN OLD DAKOTA.

The Dealer Gave His Rival Four Jacks and Himself Four Queens. When the Show Down Came, the Jacks Had Turned to Aces.

In the northwest they still talk about the last poker game that Major Edwards and Stanley Huntley played together. They were pioneer editors of newspapers in Dakota in the old territorial days. Huntley had just sold his paper in Bismarck for $2,500 cash and was coming east. He and the major had sat in many a quiet game together, and Huntley went over to the major's office to say goodbye and play one last game.

The major produced the cards, locked the door, and the two faced a green table.

The major had the reputation of being a skillful dealer, and Huntley's previous experiences had taught him that cards sometimes appeared in the major's hand on a show down whose legitimate existence could only be accounted for on the hypothesis that the age of miracles had not passed. So he had fortified himself for this farewell game not only with the $2,500 which he had received for his newspaper property, but also with four large but overworked aces.

There was no limit, but for an hour the game went along quietly enough.

The major was out $800 or $400, but, as both players remarked, the game was "young yet." At last a jack pot for $60 came and remained. Back and forth across the table went the deck. Neither man could get openers. Each time the deal passed the pot was sweetened $40.

At last there was $800 on the table. The major dealt. Huntley looked over his cards and found four jacks.

As has been said, the major was a slick dealer, and when a big pool was at stake and it was his deal he generally managed to give his opponent a good stiff hand, while taking care that he himself had one just a shade better.

So, when Huntley found the four jacks in his hand it seemed to him that the time had come to precipitate his four aces into action. The jacks were retired unostentatiously, and with a faint—a very faint—shade of disappointment in his voice Huntley announced:

"I can't break it."

The major was still examining his cards with that hesitating air that some people always believe means "studying out a straight." Finally he said:

"I'll have to break it for $500. It's a big pot."

Huntley looked mournful and said:

"I'll stay Gimme a card."

"None for me," announced the major briskly, as he threw over a card and laid down the deck. "I'll bet you $500."

"I'll raise you $500," said Huntley.

"Five hundred more," said the major.

"I think I would go crazy with pain were it not for Chamberlain's Pain Balm," writes W. H. Stapleton, Herminie, Pa. There is no better medicine for the babies than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Its pleasant taste and prompt and effective cures make it a favorite with mothers and small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds, preventing pneumonia or other serious consequences. It also cures croup and has been used in tens of thousands of cases without a single failure so far as we have been able to learn. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croaky cough appears, will prevent the attack. In cases of whooping cough it liquifies the tough mucus, making it easier to expectorate, and lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, thus depriving that disease of all its dangerous consequences. DESTRUCTIVE CONFLAGRATION.

The Bender Dwelling Burned.

MOST OF CONTENTS WERE SAVED.

Estimated Loss, $6,000; Insurance, $3,000

—The Cause of the Fire is Unknown.

The fire alarm was sounded at 4:20 yesterday afternoon, when it was learned that C. T. Bender's new double dwelling house, on the corner of Fourth and Balston streets, occupied by T. K. Stewart and Dr. J. A. Lewis, was burning.

With their usual promptitude the fire department appeared upon the scene, but notwithstanding their determined efforts to check the fire spread it gained steadily, and little but a shell was left of the residence when three hours later they reeled up the long lines of hose and drew the fires from under the engines.

The fire originated in a woodshed and spread rapidly to the rear of the house, which was burning fiercely when the engines arrived. Just how it originated is not known, but it is thought to have been started by children playing in the woodshed.

As soon as the flames were discovered both the inmates and their neighbors began carrying out household effects and furniture; more people arrived and rendered assistance, until nearly everything was taken out. Carpets were ripped up, window shades, doors and even electric light fixtures were saved. Nothing was lost excepting Dr. Lewis' surgical instruments, books and the contents of the kitchen, which could not be entered, as the flames had gained too much headway.

The things saved were carried across the street and deposited near the Higgins residence, where they were taken care of, the more valuable articles being taken into the house.

Luckily no one was injured during the fire. At one time the pipemen were standing in a room on the second floor, under which the flames were burning fiercely. They were warned of their dangerous position and instructed to move before the floor fell in, which it did soon afterwards. Will Murray, who was in an upstairs room getting out some articles which were overlooked, had a narrow escape from death. He had just stepped out of a front window on to a scaling ladder when the whole ceiling of the room fell in. Had he remained a minute longer he would have been buried under the fiery ruins.

As the building was well covered by insurance, the loss of both the owner and the occupants is comparatively small. Dr. Lewis suffered the greatest, many of his valuable instruments and books being burned.

Almost a Fire.

Yesterday afternoon dense clouds of smoke were seen issuing from the rear of Lange and Schmitt's hardware store but no alarm was given as the fire was at once located and put out by the old reliable water pail method.

It originated behind the store in a big tin vat filled with rubbish and had not been extinguished at once Reno might have now been minus one side of Commercial Row, as the wind was blowing from the west.

The Third Fire.

This morning at 1 o'clock the fire alarm jangled again, and a JOURNAL reporter, forsaking his nocturnal "sickies" and coffee, ran about two miles toward a faint smoke in the east, only to discover an Indian wickup in flames. Clasping himself with Damphol and others disciples of Bacchus he returned to the office.

State Agency.

The Reno Mercantile Company has taken the agency for the celebrated Bartlett Springs mineral water. This water is well known throughout the country, and the springs in California have gained renown for their curative qualities, hundreds of tourists from different parts of the world flocking there every year in search of health. It is said the water when bottled retains all its mineral qualities when shipped to a distance, so gives the user the same benefits he would receive at the famous springs.

Mormon Anniversary Celebrated.

The Mormon pioneer day was celebrated at Lund, White Pine county, last Monday. The occasion was the fifty-second anniversary of the entrance of the saints, under the leadership of Brigham Young, into Salt Lake Valley. There were about 250 Latter Day Saints of the towns of Lund and Preston participated in the celebration.

These two villages are settled principally by members of the Latter Day church. This was, we believe, the first time that the anniversary was ever publicly celebrated in the State of Nevada. The southeastern part of the State is largely peopled by former residents of Utah, and they are as a rule thrifty, industrious and law-abiding citizens.
